

Monuments and Memory

ARTH 4440

Topics in Modern Sculpture

Spring 2023 – Wednesdays 1:25-4:25 ART158

Paul (Monty) Paret • paul.paret@utah.edu

MONUMENTS AND MEMORY

This special version of Topics in Modern Sculpture will introduce students to the study of monuments, memorials and memory. We will address a wide range of historical and contemporary monuments and memory practices, as well as different critical positions and controversies over historical and contemporary monuments and the politics of commemoration. We will balance a case study approach with field work and readings will be drawn from fields of art history, memory studies, social and political theory, and history. Students will have the opportunity to develop individual research projects around particular monuments, memorials and debates. The course is open to all students. No pre-requisites!

