

SOCIOLOGY OF DEVELOPMENT

Sociology 6845-001

University of Utah, Fall 2023

Tuesday 2:00pm-5:00pm, BEHS 315

[THIS IS A TENTATIVE SYLLABUS – IT IS SUBJECT TO CHANGE]

Instructor: Marcel Paret, BEHS 408A, marcel.paret@soc.utah.edu

Office hours: by appointment

Course Description

This graduate-level seminar provides an overview of current research on the sociology of development. The objectives of the course include the following:

- examine different definitions of “development”;
- examine historical processes of social change, with specific attention to capitalism, the nation-state system, and collective action within society;
- examine different theories of the relationship between capitalism, democracy, poverty, inequality, the state, and social movements;
- develop an understanding of “the global” as a site of both interconnection and inequality;

This is a reading-, writing-, and participation-intensive course. You must be prepared to do all of the reading, to complete the regular writing assignments, and to participate actively in classroom discussions.

Participation

The success of the seminar depends on every participant studying the readings, carefully and critically, before each of our weekly class meetings, and contributing to the discussions. We will read the equivalent of approximately one book each week. I expect you to complete the readings before our meeting each week, and to be prepared to engage in discussion.

Active participation in all class discussions is required for all students. Quantity and quality of participation are both important. Please work hard NOT to dominate class discussion. Likewise, please do NOT assume that others will carry the burden. Find a healthy balance.

As a class, we will focus on establishing the logic of arguments, assessing strengths and weaknesses, comparing and contrasting authors, reflecting upon research questions, and considering potential avenues of future research.

Presentations

Each class will begin with a brief 12-15 minute presentation, and each student will present two times during the semester. The goal of the presentations is twofold: to push you to think even deeper about the course material, and to provide a foundation for the classroom discussion.

When it is your turn to present, you must bring a 1-page handout for each person in class. The text must be 12 point font, and must not cover more than a single 8.5" x 11" page. The handout should summarize the points that you will elaborate in your presentation, and should include the following four sections:

- Argument: identify and explain 3-4 central arguments that the authors make in the readings. Summarize each argument in a single sentence, and then provide subpoints as you see fit. Diagrams and tables are encouraged, but not required.
- Strengths/weaknesses: identify and explain 1-2 strengths and 1-2 weaknesses of the readings.
- Compare and contrast: consider how the readings for the week relate to each other or to readings from previous weeks. Make 2-3 comparisons or contrasts between different authors.
- Discussion questions: raise 2-3 potential questions for discussion.

THREE IMPORTANT NOTES ABOUT PRESENTATIONS:

First, your presentation is not a detailed summary of all that takes place in the readings, which is not possible within 12-15 minutes. Do not provide a chapter-by-chapter recap. Rather, I want you to cut to the root of what you think is most important about the readings.

Second, your summary should assess all of the readings for that day, to the best of your ability. I want you to identify 3-4 arguments, 1-2 strengths, 1-2 weaknesses, 2-3 comparisons, and 2-3 questions overall, not for each reading.

Third, your handout should be a summary of your summary. Think bullet points rather than paragraphs. Identify the main ideas and leave some of the details for your actual presentation. I want the other students to listen to you, and they will be unable to do that if they are reading the entire time.

Critical response essays

Beginning in the second week, each week you are required to submit a critical response essay of 350-450 words. Critical response essays are due on Monday at 11:59pm. Please submit them through the relevant assignment in Canvas. PLEASE SUBMIT ON TIME. If you submit late, I will most likely not be able to provide you with written feedback.

Your essay should respond to the readings for the week, addressing each of the following three items in some way:

- What is the central argument, and what supporting evidence do the authors provide?
- What are the strengths and weaknesses of the work?
- How do the readings relate to each other and/or to previous readings?

Please take care to avoid the common trap of focusing overwhelmingly on summary. Make sure to include critical analysis of the work, including consideration of strengths and weaknesses, as well as how it compares or contrasts with other works.

Short papers

Each student will complete two short papers. For the first paper, you will compare and contrast three authors from the course. For the second paper, you will gather empirical material for a mini-case study of development. You will have 1,000 words for the first paper, and 2,500 words for the second paper. You must also submit two preliminary proposals for the mini-case study paper.

Please note the key deadlines below:

Mini-case study proposal #1	September 22, 2023 at 11:59pm
Compare and contrast paper	October 7, 2023 at 11:59pm
Mini-case study proposal #2	November 10, 2023 at 11:59pm
Mini-case study paper	December 11, 2023 at 11:59pm

Grading – breakdown of final course grade

Participation and presentations	34 percent
Critical response essays	33 percent
Short papers	33 percent

Disability services

The University of Utah seeks to provide equal access to its programs, services and activities for people with disabilities. If you will need accommodations in the class, reasonable prior notice needs to be given to the Center for Disability Services, 162 Union Building, 581-5020 (V/TDD). CDS will work with you and the instructor to make arrangements for accommodations.

Academic misconduct

Per University of Utah regulations (Policy # 6-400). “A student who engages in academic misconduct,” as defined in Part I.B. and including, but not limited to, cheating, falsification, or plagiarism, “may be subject to academic sanctions including but not limited to a grade reduction, failing grade, probation, suspension or dismissal from the program or the University, or revocation of the student's degree or certificate. Sanctions may also include community service, a written reprimand, and/or a written statement of misconduct that can be put into an appropriate record maintained for purposes of the profession or discipline for which the student is preparing.” Please refer to the Student Code for full elaboration of student academic and behavioral misconduct policies (<http://regulations.utah.edu/academics/6-400.php>).

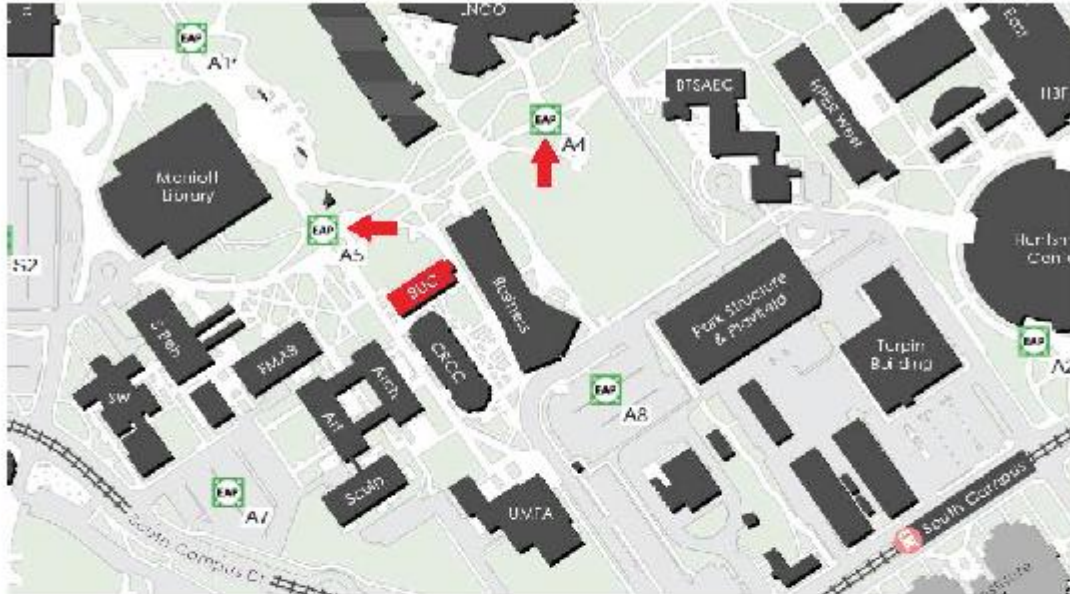

Sexual misconduct

Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender (which includes sexual orientation and gender identity/expression) is a Civil Rights offense subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories such as race, national origin, color, religion, age, status as a person with a disability, veteran's status or genetic information. If you or someone you know has been harassed or assaulted, you are encouraged to report it to the Title IX Coordinator in the Office of Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action, 135 Park Building, 801-581-8365, or the Office of the Dean of Students, 270 Union Building, 801-581-7066. For support and confidential consultation, contact the Center for Student Wellness, 426 SSB, 801-581-7776. To report to the police, contact the Department of Public Safety, 801-585-2677(COPS).

Safety

The University of Utah values the safety of all campus community members. To report suspicious activity or to request a courtesy escort, call campus police at 801-585-COPS (801-585-2677). You will receive important emergency alerts and safety messages regarding campus safety via text message. For more information regarding safety and to view available training resources, including helpful videos, visit safeu.utah.edu.

CSBS EMERGENCY ACTION PLAN

BUILDING EVACUATION

EAP (Emergency Assembly Point) – When you receive a notification to evacuate the building either by campus text alert system or by building fire alarm, please follow your instructor in an orderly fashion to the EAP marked on the map below. Once everyone is at the EAP, you will receive further instructions from Emergency Management personnel. You can also look up the EAP for any building you may be in on campus at <http://emergencymanagement.utah.edu/eap>.

CAMPUS RESOURCES

U Heads Up App: There's an app for that. Download the app on your smartphone at alert.utah.edu/headsup to access the following resources:

- Emergency Response Guide: Provides instructions on how to handle any type of emergency, such as earthquake, utility failure, fire, active shooter, etc. Flip charts with this information are also available around campus.
- See Something, Say Something: Report unsafe or hazardous conditions on campus. If you see a life threatening or emergency situation, please call 911!

Safety Escorts: For students who are on campus at night or past business hours and would like an escort to your car, please call 801-585-2677. You can call 24/7 and a security officer will be sent to walk with you or give you a ride to your desired on-campus location.
