COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course provides students with a background in the sequence and processes associated with typical speech and language development. Students will be introduced to current models of phonological, lexical, morphological, syntactic and pragmatic acquisition.

PRE- OR CO-REQUISITES

None.

REQUIRED MATERIAL

- Hoff, E. (2014). Language development 5th Edition. Pacific Grove, CA: Brooks/Cole.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

By the end of this course, you will be able to:

1. Identify the milestones, sequences, and processes associated with typical language development.
2. Summarize and compare/contrast different theories of language development.
3. Distinguish methodologies used to examine children's linguistic competence.
4. Evaluate models of typical language development in light of the developmental profiles associated with clinical populations.
5. Develop and report personal expertise in an area of language development through individual investigation of the research.

TEACHING AND LEARNING METHODS

This is an online course that will be taught using online presentations and readings. All material related to this course can be found on the course Canvas page. My overall course structure and instructional approach are two-fold: 1) To train you to think independently and find resources on your own; (2) To have the overall course content represent “real-world” situations you will experience as professionals. Our course Canvas page will be the primary point of information dissemination for course content. Online courses require unique focus, pacing, and dedication on students' part in order to succeed. Please make sure you have your notifications for Canvas page “Announcements” turned on as this is the primary way I communicate with the class. Course assignments represent a significant time commitment, specifically with regard to the Article Synthesis Assignment and Child Language Probes. STUDENTS SHOULD NOT WAIT UNTIL THE LAST MINUTE TO START THESE PROJECTS. YOU HAVE BEEN WARNED 😊.

ASSIGNMENTS AND EXAMS

1. Active Learning Study Quizzes (ALSQ) (10 points each; 120 points): Active learning is an  approach to instruction that involves actively engaging students with the course material through various methods, such as quiz taking. 12 study quizzes will be administered on Canvas over the course of the semester to allow you to engage in active learning with the week's presented material. Each quiz may be taken up to 3 times and will remain open throughout the semester. The quizzes will cover the week's presented material and readings. Quiz due dates are identified in the course schedule below.
2. Exams (40 points each; 120 points total): Three exams will be administered on Canvas over the course of the semester. The exam format will be timed and open book consisting of matching, multiple choice, fill-in-the-blank, and short essay. Questions will be based on reading assignments and weekly Canvas presentations. The opportunity to earn 2 extra credit points per exam will be offered on each test by developing test questions on material studied but that was NOT addressed on the exam.
3. Child Language Probes (25 points each; 50 points total): Each student is required to administer and report on two child language probes (child age range: 18 months to 8 years). A set of 6 different probes options with specific instructions and report forms will be provided on Canvas. These probes represent shortened versions of procedures that have been used by child language researchers to investigate children's linguistic knowledge. Written documentation of parental permission must be obtained and turned in to the instructor prior to the administration of each probe. See the Canvas assignment page for specific instructions.
4. Article Synthesis (70 points): Each student is required to write summaries and a synthesis of five research articles focusing on child language in the typically developing population. All of these articles must be on the same topic (see list of pre-approved topics on the assignment Canvas page) and more recent than 2010. Only primary sources may be used. In other words, these must be experimental studies from research journals (see Hoff pg. 27 for examples of research journals). Secondary sources (e.g., academic books, book chapters, meta-analyses/systematic review studies, reports, etc.), tertiary sources such as textbooks, or "other" types of sources (e.g., internet materials, magazine articles from Time, Discover, American Scientist, etc.) may not be used for this assignment. Reports on disordered populations will not receive credit (e.g., children who use cochlear implants, children with Down syndrome, children with autism, children with dyslexia, developmental language disorder, etc.). In addition, the five journals listed on Hoff pg. 27 as "language disorders journals" and journals focusing on autism, intellectual, or developmental disabilities on may not be used for this assignment. See the Canvas assignment page for specific instructions.

GRADING CRITERIA

COURSE POLICIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Communicating with Instructor: If you are having difficulties with any of the concepts, please contact me well before a particular due date. I am happy to answer questions and provide additional instruction as needed. I try to respond to emails that are sent on Mondays-Fridays on the same day if received before 4:00 p.m. There will most likely be a delay in responding to emails that are sent after hours or on weekends.

Due Date Policy: Please note due dates on the schedule below. Late work will receive a zero. If an emergency arises that prevents you from completing your work on time, please email me as soon as possible so that arrangements can be made for you to keep up in the class. The late policy may be waived at my discretion in case of an emergency.

Cheating: I treat cases of academic dishonesty with utmost seriousness. Any submission not originating from your own efforts, or any work that violates assignment/exam instructions, will result in an automatic grade of "0" – NO EXCEPTIONS. Furthermore, the matter will be escalated to the Department Chair and Director of Undergraduate Studies, necessitating a meeting involving all involved parties. This situation is very embarrassing and difficult for students and can have a serious impact on your future academic and professional endeavours - I strongly urge you to prioritize honesty.

Mandatory Reporter:

Duty to Notify: As a University representative, most faculty, staff, and teaching assistants (other than professional mental health counsellors) are required to report information learned about instances of sexual misconduct, discrimination, and/or immediate threats to safety to the University of Utah Office of Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action and/or the Office of the Dean of Students.

If you do choose to disclose instances of sexual misconduct, discrimination, or violence to me, please be aware that I am a mandatory reporter and am required by University policies to notify the appropriate Office.

Online Course Statement:

Online courses require significant self-motivation. Online courses are different than on-campus courses and online learning is not ideal for everyone. Some lessons take a considerable amount of time to complete. Please note that not all modules are created equal. Some may take a bit more time than others. Some people believe this to be a much easier way to study this subject than in the on-campus framework. Others may feel very intimidated at first. Be patient as you work your way through the first few modules. If you are serious about the material, you will learn as much as, if not more than, most on-campus students about this subject and develop reading and communication skills that are vital to the workforce of the 21st century.

- Electronic or equipment failure: It is your responsibility to maintain your computer and related equipment in order to participate in the online nature of the course.
- Document archiving: You are responsible for making sure your assignments, including attachments, are received before the deadline. Students are also responsible for ensuring that the documents submitted are the correct document to be graded.
- Naming conventions and software type: You are responsible for submitting the assignment with the required naming convention, correct file extension, and using the software type and version required for the assignment. See assignment instructions for acceptable formats.
- Classroom equivalency: Discussion threads, e-mails, and chat rooms are all considered to be equivalent to classrooms, and student behavior within those environments shall conform to the University of Utah Student Code. Specifically:
 - Posting photos or comments that would be off-topic in a classroom are still off-topic in an online posting.
 - Off-color language and photos are never appropriate.
 - Using angry or abusive language is called "flaming", is not acceptable, and will be dealt with according to the Student Code.
 - Course e-mails, e-journals, and other online course communications are part of the classroom and as such, are University property and subject to GRAMA regulations and the Student Code. Privacy regarding these communications between correspondents must not be assumed and should be mutually agreed upon in advance, in writing.

DROP/WITHDRAWAL POLICIES

Students may drop a course within the first two weeks of a given semester without any penalties.

Students may officially withdraw (W) from a class or all classes after the drop deadline through the midpoint of a course. A “W” grade is recorded on the transcript and appropriate tuition/fees are assessed. The grade “W” is not used in calculating the student’s GPA.

For deadlines to withdraw from full-term, first, and second session classes, see the U's Academic Calendar \(https://registrar.utah.edu/academic-calendars/index.php\).

It is assumed that all work submitted to your instructor is your own work. When you have used the ideas of others, you must properly indicate that you have done so.

Plagiarism and cheating are serious offenses and may be punished by failure on an individual assignment, and/or failure in the course. Academic misconduct, according to the University of Utah Student Code,

“...Includes, but is not limited to, cheating, misrepresenting one’s work, inappropriately collaborating, plagiarism, and fabrication or falsification of information...It also includes facilitating academic misconduct by intentionally helping or attempting to help another to commit an act of academic misconduct.”
